65 years of Tripair

In 1949, brothers Ben and David Sevac immigrated to Canada after serving for the British Royal Engineers in the Second World War. They made the decision to use their managerial and engineering experiences to start a small metal stamping business called 'Tripair' on Hays Avenue in Montreal, Canada. Over the last 65 years, and now in its 3rd generation of the Sevac family, Tripair become more and more successful over the years and established itself as a leading metal stamping specialist having worked with thousands of companies all over the world.
